Dear Dr. Millikan:

Your splendid presentation of "The American Economy" and your outstanding service again as a consultant during our Economics week have provided our student body and faculty with a solid basis for their year of study.

When you have had an opportunity to consider the work of the past week, I would appreciate an expression of your opinion regarding the course outline including comment on reading material, lecture scopes, and discussion topics, and any other criticism which you may not have had time to pass on to us. Your judgment in this matter will be particularly valuable to us in improving our course for next year.

Many thanks for your perfectly fine contribution. Your serious effort in our behalf is always appreciated. Come by when you can break away.

Sincerely,

H. R. BULL
Lieutenant General, U. S. Army
Commandant
